Democracy thrives on discussion, and in the process each idea has to undergo intensive examination and test before it is embodied in a final decision. The democratic experiment to which we are wedded carries with it the spirit of give and take. I hope, Honourable Members will lend their helping hand to surmount many difficulties confronting the State. Destiny has cast upon you all in your representative roles the heavy responsibility of helping the people of Mysore State to solve their problems. I am sure you will discharge your obligations in a fitting manner.

With this brief review, I conclude my address and once again extend my greeting and best wishes to you all for success in your deliberations. I earnestly hope your endeavours will be fruitful and help to formulate such wise and carefully considered decisions as will contribute to the progress and prosperity of the State.
